MARGATE — The Milton & Betty Katz Jewish Community Center is teaming up with Atlantic City's MudGirls Studios for a Women's History Month art exhibit.

The exhibit, which features ceramic art created by MudGirls, will be on display through March 29 at the JCC's gallery at 501 N. Jerome Ave. A reception is scheduled for 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. March 20, during which attendees can meet the artists.

MudGirls Studios is a nonprofit that seeks to empower disadvantaged women through ceramic art and architectural designs, according to the center. Attendees will be able to purchase pieces throughout the month, with proceeds benefiting MudGirls.
